A battery plant fire in California started during a boom for energy. The fire that started Thursday at the Vistra Energy battery plant in Moss Landing, roughly 80 miles (about 130 kilometers) south of San Francisco, led to 1,700 people being evacuated. Fire Risk Assessment of An Energy Storage Station Based on Lithium-ion battery storage stations have become a crucial component of modern power systems, yet their inherent instability poses severe fire risks during storage. How did the energy storage power station catch fire? Inadequate maintenance significantly contributes to the fire hazards prevalent in energy storage power stations. Routine inspections and maintenance of critical components, such as battery management systems, are essential to prevent such incidents. The battery energy storage station to be built in Bandar Seri Begawan is a type of energy storage power station that uses a group of batteries to store electrical energy.
